

Julia Tyler, MBA, MLS

Julia Tyler is an independent health services researcher and writer in Albuquerque, NM. She covers clinical medicine, health administration, health economics, and related fields, and has written extensively about the use of technology in diagnosis and monitoring of cardiovascular disease. Ms. Tyler was previously an Associate Professor at the Ruth Lilly Medical Library, Indiana University School of Medicine. She received her undergraduate degree from Butler University and MBA/MLS from the University of Indianapolis and Indiana University.